

Curiosity Scholar:

Curiosity Scholars submit original writing to The Curiosity Journal, a student-led publication where ideas come first.

What do I write about?

This is a space to share your unique ideas with other curious students! You may write about areas you are knowledgeable in, topics you are curious about, and any burning questions you have. If you have thoughts, questions, or ideas you'd like to share — or if you've written something you'd be proud to publish — we would love to read your work.

Time commitment:

Submit at least 7 pieces of writing per year

Who can be a Curiosity Scholar:

Anyone! After signing up through our Google form, you become a Curiosity Scholar!

1. Submission Guidelines

- Suggested length (e.g., 300–800 words, flexible)
- Tone: semi-formal and academic
- Sources/citations (please include if applicable)

2. Submission Process

- Where do I send it? (send it to the Unboxed email)
- File format (Google Docs, PDF, Word doc, etc.)

Your writing will be reviewed and, if selected, published on our website with your name credited as the author. Submissions are accepted at any time.
